

more are going to buy them because fire wood is very difficult to get. I've got a primus which is a little bigger than the one ~~which~~ I took to France with me. It certainly make cooking a pleasure.

The climate here is so dry in this season that we don't mind the heat - which isn't very great anyway. The dust is, however, getting to be troublesome. In camp it gets into everything and out on camping trips it sifts into food, and one has to ~~use~~ <sup>wear</sup> dust proof goggles ~~even~~ on paved roads.

The A.F.S. men here, like <sup>men</sup> in the U.S. army, are of all types & tastes. They are, by and large, a more intelligent and idealistic ~~group~~ <sup>group</sup> than a comparable group in the army, they ~~also~~ <sup>also</sup> have a more variety of interests and are more individualistic. There is much here which I'd like to comment on. Particularly on the matter of British method of doing things & A.F.S. organization. There's a lot ~~that~~ I like & some that I don't, but all this will have to wait ~~until~~ <sup>until</sup> ~~you~~ <sup>you</sup> can tell you about it.

I continue to enjoy life <sup>here</sup> and ~~am~~ <sup>am</sup> quite healthy.

With lots of love
Henry
